◆ Telecommunications Assessment ◆

“IF YOU HAVEN’T CHANGED YOUR VOICE OR DATA CONTRACTS OR PRICING IN THE LAST TWO YEARS, YOU’RE LEAVING MONEY ON THE TABLE”

Today’s challenging business climate demands that companies operate as cost effectively as possible. To achieve that, businesses need to be constantly aware of costs across their entire organization.

The area of telecommunications is no exception.

One of the most overlooked cost savings opportunities exists in telecommunications systems and contracts. Frequently, voice (telephone) or data (internet) contracts or pricing have not been recently reviewed or challenged, resulting in missed savings opportunities – savings that can be significant.

Gallagher, Flynn & Company’s Information Technology Group has years of experience helping clients with their telecommunications needs. Whether it’s a comprehensive analysis and reassessment of an entire network, or more of an advisory role on a project by projects basis, our team of specialists are fully qualified to provide the support your organization requires.

Support services include:

- Telecommunications network/systems assessment
- Contract assessment
- Vendor screening
- Contract selection assistance
- Vendor selection
- Support

In our ongoing effort to provide clients comprehensive support, we offer a no cost telecommunications assessment. After a brief discussion and review of key telecommunications information, our experts will be able to provide you with a general summary of their findings and suggested actions steps as necessary.

No charge to you – just an added benefit.

We believe this is an excellent opportunity to receive an independent assessment of this important component of your organization. We look forward to discussing the details of our approach with you.
